Executive Summary

During this reporting period, we observed a notable decline in organic traffic while maintaining a stable level of search clicks. The performance of our highest-ranking landing page remains strong, indicating potential areas for improvement in our overall strategy.

What Happened

Organic traffic decreased by 31%, falling from 318 sessions to 220, while search clicks saw a slight increase from 2218 to 2232. Notably, there were no changes in keyword rankings, backlinks, or the number of organic keywords, all remaining at zero.

Why It Happened

The decline in organic traffic may be attributed to several factors, including seasonal trends that typically affect user behavior and possibly increased competition within our niche. The lack of keyword movement or new backlinks indicates a stagnation in our SEO efforts, which could further exacerbate traffic challenges.

What To Do Next

To address these issues, we recommend conducting a thorough competitive analysis to identify emerging threats and opportunities. Additionally, we should develop a content strategy aimed at optimizing existing pages and generating new keywords. Investing in backlink acquisition will also be crucial to improve our domain authority and drive organic traffic.
